

Walter Asks Congress To Outlaw Non-Sked Airlines

(Special to The Daily Record)

REP. FRANCIS E. WALTER yesterday asked Congress to outlaw the supplemental or non-sked airlines. His suggestion won immediate support of at least a half dozen other members of the House of Representatives.

Prior to his announcement on the house floor, Walter learned that the supplemental airline legislation pending in conference between the House and Senate is likely to die because of a stalemate among the conferees on the Senate side.

This, in effect, would permit the non-skeds to continue in business while a pending court case is being decided in the United States District Court.

Bill Pending

The bill in conference includes a number of amendments suggested by Walter, aimed at tightening both the safety and economic requirements of the non-skeds.

Walter's action yesterday caught many by surprise.

"It has been repeatedly pointed out on the floor of the House, in the report of the committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce

News In Brief

Plca Denied On Blue Law Test

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The state Supreme Court rejected Thursday the latest move by business interests to test the legality of Pennsylvania's Sunday Blue laws.

The high tribunal, in a per curiam ruling announced by Chief Justice John C. Bell, rejected an appeal for a reargument of an appeal lost last March 21 by Bargain City, U. S. A., a discount chain.

The action left open to authorities enforcement of the law banning sale of certain items on Sundays.

David Berger, Philadelphia city solicitor, said "strict enforcement will start this Sunday."

Syria Announces New Command

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Maj. Gen. Abdel Kerim Zahreddin, the army chief, announced Thursday formation of a new high command, the membership of which is still secret, to guide the nation and seek unity with other Arab powers.

The announcement, made on the second day after the suppression of a pro-Nasser military rebellion at Aleppo in northern Syria, said the new command enjoys the support and confidence of all army units throughout the country.

Hailing democracy as "one of the prime characteristics of the Syrian people," Damascus radio said the new command already had taken up its task of "regulating democratic life" and assuring "stability to face imperialist plots."

Senk Is Found Guilty Of Murder

BLOOMSBURG, Pa. (AP) — A jury of four women and eight men, deliberating less than two hours, Thursday convicted Frank Earl Senk, roving magazine salesman, of first degree murder for the killing of 15-year-old Jane Benfield last July.

The case was given to the jury in mid-afternoon after a charge by Judge C. W. Kreisher lasting one hour and 47 minutes. The jury made up its mind in one hour 43 minutes.

Kreisher put off until Friday the taking of more testimony to help the jury determine whether the penalty will be life imprisonment or death in the electric chair.

Space Craft For Moon Unveiled

DOWNEY, Calif. (AP) — A wooden mockup of a cone-shaped command capsule for the Apollo space craft, intended to land three Americans on the moon by 1970, was unveiled today.

Space experts call it one of the most complex manned-flight devices ever designed and built.

The capsule, tall enough in the middle for a man to stand erect, has everything needed to keep its occupants alive in "shirtsleeve atmosphere" for two weeks, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said.

The trip to the moon is envisioned requiring about 2 1/2 days each way, with a 24-hour layover during which the astronauts will explore the moon's surface near the space ship.

Good Morning!

A working girl is one who quit her job to get married.

on Senate Bill 1969, by members of the Senate and by the U. S. District Court of Appeals that the operating certificates of these carriers (non-skeds) are illegal," Walter told his colleagues.

Reprieve Granted

He noted that Congress in Public Law 86-661 had granted a 20-month reprieve to consider whether the supplemental airlines should be continued and, if so, on what basis.

The Easton Congressman, who has conducted an independent investigation of the non-skeds as a result of the Imperial Airlines crash in Richmond, Va., Nov. 8, said, "It has become clear that the vast majority of the members of the supplemental group are unfit for a variety of reasons which include law violations, unsafe and negligent operations, sub-standard maintenance, unsound financial conditions and false and fraudulent filings with the Civil Aeronautics Board and the Federal Aviation Agency.

Shocking Disasters

"These supplemental operations," Walter continued, "have resulted in shocking airline disasters at Richmond, at Toledo, at Shannon, Ireland and elsewhere.

"The supplementals have evaded over a million dollars in Federal taxes and defaulted on hundred of thousands of dollars of debt owed to the government for fuel and supplies," Walter charged.

He also said that "The supplemental airlines have systematically flouted the law and operated scheduled services illegally."

Walter then went into a brief history of the pending legislation, tied up in conference, and said he believes, there is no public need for the supplementals." He criticized the Senate for including three grants of authority to the supplementals—individually, ticketed authority, (like that held by Imperial Airlines), at expense tours and allowing cargo carriers to fly passengers without CAB approval.

Invalidate Safety

"These three grants," Walter said, "would embroil the airline industry in ceaseless abuse and the safety and enforcement amendments sorely needed to reform the supplementals."

Noting that he no longer has any doubts that there is any justification for the supplementals, Walter concluded that the non-skeds "cannot be permitted to continue their illegal and dangerous operations." He said he felt that outlawing the non-skeds "is the only means by which we can protect the public and maintain order in the nation's air transportation system."

Stroudsburg Unit In On Regrouping

TROOP "B", 3rd Recon. Sqdn., 79th Division, Stroudsburg, has not received any official notice regarding the Army plan for regrouping, Capt. Charles Wilkinson, commanding officer, said last night.

However, the unit is a part of plan being considered by Congress. The plan calls for the regrouping of its reserve units by reducing four National Guard and four reserve Infantry divisions into brigades and setting up a ready-to-fight force of six National Guard divisions.

Purge Of Red China Seen As Imminent

TOKYO (AP) — In terms that suggested a new purge may be imminent, Red China's leadership Thursday sharply denounced the thousands who make up the mainland's Communist bureaucracy.

Breaking the silence which has surrounded meetings of the party Central Committee and the current National People's Congress, or Parliament, the Peiping People's Daily said:

"There are persons who have become steeped in bureaucracy, exhibit feelings of insolence and self-satisfaction, forget realities, estrange themselves from the masses and do not care to discuss things with the masses."

Demands Re-education

The paper, which speaks for the Chinese leadership, went on to demand the re-education of many of the more than 12 million members of the Chinese party, the largest in the Communist camp.

The unusually sharp attack on the men and women who carry out the policies of the Peiping rulers raised the possibility they may soon be blamed in part for the present Chinese crisis.

Until now, the Chinese high command has attributed a three-year succession of crop failures, and the subsequent collapse of Chairman Mao Tse-tung's industrial "great leap forward," to natural calamities.

Deliberate In Secrecy

The fact that the long delayed People's Congress has deliberated for nine days in secrecy—in contrast to the frequent broadcasts of previous years—suggested that the dimensions of the Chinese crisis are bigger than so far surmised.

If so, Mao may have to find something more than bad weather as a scapegoat.

The last big purge the Chinese party carried out in 1958, followed Mao's widely touted campaign to "let all flowers bloom. Let 100 schools of thought contend."

The outspoken criticism which resulted forced Mao abruptly to close the campaign and begin widespread weeding out of alleged rightists from the party.

BUT NOW IS CHRIST RISEN!

THESE words uttered by the Apostle Paul (1 Cor. 15:20) are fraught with hope and glory. And this hope and glory is given to "whosoever will." "This is the Lord's doing; it is marvelous in our eyes."

First let us consider the hope and glory of salvation in the light of His resurrection. Dying on Calvary was not sufficient. Did not two thieves also die there? Their deaths could not atone for sin. It is in the resurrection that Christ's sinlessness was confirmed.

Proof is here that He provided the perfect sacrifice for the redemption of men. Without the resurrection there is no hope of salvation. "And if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins." 1 Corinthians 15:17.

Salvation hinges upon the glorious fact of His resurrection. "If thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in that heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved." Romans 10:10.

Then secondly, His resurrection and ascension give hope for divine power to live and do His commands. The coming of the Holy Spirit with power and glory was contingent upon His going to the Father. St. John 16:7, "for if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I depart, I will send him unto you."

Praise God! Now is Christ risen — interceding for you and me, that we might know and experience the power of God in our lives. The promise is real for He is risen and ascended.

And now the third wonderful assurance given to us in this resurrection — His return in great power and glory. This is that glorious and blessed hope of the believers of all ages. We comfort our hearts in the knowledge of His return soon, for His own. He said, "I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself: that where I am there you may be also."

Those that are asleep in Christ died with the hope of a resurrection of glory — for He is risen. We which are alive await our translation as is written, "In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed." 1 Corinthians 15:52.

Now is Christ risen!

Dean Says Soviet Policy Makes Treaty Impossible

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union's tough take-it-or-leave-it policy makes it impossible to conclude a nuclear test ban treaty, U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean declared Thursday.

He told a three-power subcommittee meeting working on the test ban that negotiations are frozen but that the United States is willing to wait hopefully for a last-minute change in the Soviet attitude.

The Soviet delegate, Semyon Tsarapkin, countered with a charge that U.S. plans to resume atmospheric testing in mid-Pacific late this month had made the position darker. He said the Kremlin is willing to accept a moratorium on all tests while negotiations here continue.

The Soviet Union has said it would set off a new series of shots of its own if the U.S. series takes place.

Despite the complete disagreement blocking the three nuclear powers, their representatives agreed to meet again Monday. The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union are sitting together as a subcommittee of the 17-nation general disarmament conference.

Inspection System

The United States and Britain insist that a treaty banning atomic and hydrogen weapon explosions must be enforced by an adequate international inspection and verification system. The Soviet Union maintains such a system would flood Soviet territory with spies. The Soviet delegation insists that existing national instrument systems are adequate to see that there is no cheating on a test ban.

British Minister of State Joseph Godber said the eight middle group nations in the disarmament conference recognize the validity of the Western demand for adequate international inspection arrangements.

Tsarapkin countered by declaring these same eight nations — Brazil, Burma, Ethiopia, India, Mexico, Nigeria, Sweden and the United Arab Republic — also are against resumption of tests.

Thursday's nuclear talks lasted three hours.

No Sign Of Parachutes

Civil Air Patrol planes and ground searching units from Allentown continued looking for five parachutes reported in the Bangor area Wednesday until noon yesterday and then were called back to the Allentown base.

Officials contacted in the State Belt area last night said they believe now that the reports were not of parachutes but of vapor trails or balloons from the U. S. Weather Bureau. Whatever was seen has not been determined and the air search has been called off.

Reports from several Bangor area residents were made Wednesday and State Police from the Easton barracks and police from Plainfield Township, Pen Argyl, Bangor, East Bangor and Upper Mount Bethel Township searched the area.

The police were aided by a Ranger team from the CAP headquarters in Allentown.

The CAP concluded the parachutes were of the cargo type but got negative reports when it questioned Air Force, Strategic Air Command headquarters and commercial air carriers.

It will continue its search by air Friday and Saturday and conduct a ground search Saturday in a 10-square mile area north-east of Roseto to Stroudsburg.

Kennedy Asks $400 Million For Aid To Transportation

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy asked Congress Thursday for $400 million over the next three years as a first step toward helping cities unsanitary traffic facilities outmoded by mushrooming suburbs and growing use of autos.

And Kennedy held out hope that air, rail and bus travelers can enjoy bargain rates by recommending that Congress remove federal control over minimum intercity fares. This was the highlight of his call for a drastic overhaul of what the President describes as "a chaotic patchwork of inconsistent and often obsolete" laws and rules governing transportation.

Kennedy said he is convinced "that less federal regulation and subsidization is in the long run a prime prerequisite of a healthy intercity transportation network."

The chief executive's 10,000-word message spelled out his solutions for pressing problems "burdening our national transportation system, jeopardizing the progress and security on which we depend."

He ignored former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's recommendation for creation of a government department of transportation. The message, canceled last year and delayed this year, is the last of several Kennedy has sent to Congress detailing his proposals for the nation.

Resorts To Be Checked On Sales Tax

POCONO Mountain resorts face closer state tax check this year, it was disclosed yesterday.

The four percent state tax will be collected at hotels, lodges, resorts and motels this year. The State Revenue Department has instructed district units of the Sales and Use Tax Bureau to take steps to insure collection of the tax.

The law requires all seasonal resorts, mobile ice cream stands and small restaurants to report change of ownership so that licenses to collect the tax can be issued to current operators.

Specific instructions were given to the Sales and Use Tax Bureau to check for the proper tax collections and follow changes in ownership.

Step Forward

Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., of the Senate Commerce Committee which handles legislation in this field, said some of Kennedy's proposals are controversial but that the message represents a step forward.

"For the first time in many years the administration has demonstrated its concern about our national transportation system and has taken an affirmative position on ways to improve it, both from the point of view of the carrier and the shipper," he added.

$100 Million Now

Kennedy asked Congress to make available $100 million during the fiscal year starting July 1 as the first installment of his $500-million program to help cities untangle their traffic problems. The money would be made available to public agencies in the form of direct grants to be matched by local, nonfederal contributions.

Fire Truck Chasers Will Be Arrested

STROUD Township Fire Co. was called to the corner of Wallace St. and LeRoy Ave., Stroud Township, yesterday at 6:35 p.m. to extinguish a grass fire.

Firemen used red line and Indian tanks to quell the blaze that burned over one-half acre before being extinguished.

Fire Chief Lester Rice said, "Several of our trucks had difficulty getting to the fire due to people rushing to the scene. I have issued an order to all fire police, and also asked Chief of Police H. W. Tebbis, to arrest any and all persons driving cars closer than 500 feet to the rear of a fire truck."

"This is a warning to all the residents of the area. The next time arrests will be made," he said.

Walker: 'Framed, Den Of Iniquity'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Edwin A. Walker, crusading former general, charged Thursday he was "framed in a den of iniquity" and listed Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Walt Whitman Rostow, presidential adviser, as among the dwellers in the den.

The embattled advocate of a hard anti-Communist line made no direct charge that Rusk and Rostow did any framing.

No Comment

"Not worthy of comment," Rusk said when newsman asked him about Walker's allegations. He added that "I'm happy to be linked with Mr. Rostow—he is an able and close colleague."

The White House said it would have no comment.

Walker's thesis before a Senate Armed Services subcommittee was that there's iniquitous policy in high places, a soft-on-communism policy, a sell-out plot.

He mentioned Rusk and Rostow when pressed to name those he regards as influential figures in a secret control apparatus which he said always follows the soft line on communism.

Questions Attitude

In response, he said he certainly would question Rusk's and Rostow's attitude toward "our constitutional system, our sovereignty, our security, our independence." He said he considers them very influential in the hidden apparatus he spoke of.

After the hearing, the tall, intense general put on a display of muscle in a corridor. He punched the left eye of a reporter who tried to ask him what his attitude is toward George Lincoln Rockwell, American Nazi.

The reporter, Tom Kelly of the Washington Daily News, said: "I had heard on the radio that Rockwell said Gen. Walker was a great American, the only man who would stand by him."

Strikes Reporter

"I started to ask the general what he thought of the Rockwell statement, but before I could finish he connected with a short jab. My eye doesn't hurt much and I don't plan any action."

The former major general was invited to testify in an inquiry into the whys and wherefores of his exit from the Army. He resigned after being admonished for allegedly trying to sway the votes of troops in his 24th Division in Germany in the 1960 U.S. election.

He had placed an editorial in the official division paper calling the men's attention to an index of the voting records of Congress members. This index was prepared by Americans for Constitutional Action, an organization which Walker acknowledged had a conservative bias.

Candidate For Office

Now Walker is fighting his battles in civvies. Among other things he is running for the Democratic nomination for Texas governor.

He said the soft-on-communism apparatus won't countenance hard line advocates.

So he and other patriots were framed, he said. In this connection he mentioned Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, Syngman Rhee of Korea, Moise Tshombe of the Congo and others.

The soft line is ruinous, he contended—it let communism take over Cuba, part of Korea and spread into the Congo. He said the apparatus works, in part, through the United Nations, "the nearest thing to the Tower of Babel that has ever been built."

Digging Own Graves

If the alleged hidden apparatus is not stopped, Walker said, "We are digging our own graves, the one Mr. Khrushchev said he would bury us in."

"It is already three feet deep," he said. "The U.N. bond issue would make it six inches deeper, repeal of the Connally amendment would deepen it one foot more, and the State Department disarmament policy three feet."

That would make 7 1/2 feet. The Connally amendment he mentioned says the United States reserves the right to decide whether an issue is domestic and therefore not to be adjudicated by the World Court.

Katanga Action

Walker said he had no doubt the late Dag Hammarskjöld, U.N. secretary-general, who was a Swede, was in the "Red classification." He described the U.N. action against the Tshombe regime in the Katanga as "vicious and outrageous."

The greatest uranium mines in the world are at stake, he said. "We no doubt will give these to the Communists," he added.

As for the Kennedy administration offer to join with the Soviet Union in developing peaceful space ventures, Walker said it makes no sense.

"It's like a millionaire going into partnership with a hobo, or a known crook, in a business venture," he said.

Space Achievements

The United States is the millionaire which is rich in space achievements, he held. There is no doubt this country put a man in orbit, he continued, but he questioned whether the Soviet Union ever did. There are glaring inconsistencies in their account of their two orbital flights, he said.

He took former President Dwight D. Eisenhower to task for congratulating the Soviet Union on photographing the back side of the moon.

"This was very likely a picture out of our own Popular Mechanics (magazine)," he said.

He blasted at the Central Intelligence Agency, saying there is every evidence it doesn't make its intelligence estimates independently but tailors them to fit the preconceived policy of the State Department.

NAMED BY WALKER — Secretary of State Dean Rusk, right, was named by Edwin A. Walker, former Army major general, at a Washington hearing as a link with a mysterious secret apparatus bent on a "sell-out" of this country. Walker also named Walt Whitman Rostow, left, a top State Department planner, as influential in a secret "control apparatus" which the former general said always followed the "soft line on Communism." Dutch Reject Bid To Abandon N. Guinea

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — The Dutch government easily beat down an effort Thursday by the Labor party to promote surrender of West New Guinea to Indonesia, a militant claimant.

The lower house, backing arguments of Foreign Minister Joseph Luns, rejected Labor motions for arrangements to transfer sovereignty over the Pacific colony to the Indonesians and halt shipment of Dutch military reinforcements.

Vote Identical

The vote on each of the motions was identical, 94-7.

The parliamentary showdown came while the United States was trying to get Indonesia and the Netherlands to resume the secret, informal negotiations which broke off in Washington two weeks ago.

Dutch sources said Ellsworth Bunker, the U.S. diplomat acting as third party, had submitted a proposed agenda and suggested that the talks begin again April 13.

Neither Luns nor Premier Jan de Quay mentioned a possibility of revival of the negotiations in the house debate. But Indonesia's Foreign Minister Subandrio told newsmen in Jakarta, Indonesia's capital, the U.S. activity is meeting with some success.

Military angles, however, were emphasized by developments.

Indonesia admitted one of its planes strafed an Okinawa tuna fishing boat Tuesday night off Morotai, an eastern Indonesian island. It charged the boat violated Indonesian waters and failed to give proper identification. A report received in Okinawa said one of four crewmen wounded in the attack had died.

A Dutch spokesman in Hollandia, West New Guinea's capital, said questioning of prisoners disclosed Indonesians who have infiltrated the offshore islands of Gag and Waigeo are Indonesian army commandos.

Rep. Walter Leaves For Conference

(Special to The Daily Record)

WASHINGTON — Rep. Francis E. Walter left last night for Geneva to attend sessions of the Intergovernmental Committee on European Migration. This is the 16th time Walter is attending the ICEM meetings as the United States delegate.

The Easton congressman is founder of the international organization, consisting of more than 30 countries and responsible for relocating and finding jobs for more than 1,170,000 migrants in all parts of the world.

The Geneva session will deal with organizing an international fund designed to finance on a banking and business basis resettlement of European migrants in South America.

MODEL-STUDENT SEEKS SELF — Patricia Panovec, senior who has worked her way through East Stroudsburg State College by modeling, does not see herself in this sculptural work of welded steel by George Johnson, entitled "Two Dragons and A Bird." Showing Of Stroudsburg Artists At ESC Gallery

WORDS, as well as canvas, paint, film and steel produced by area artists - three painters, a photographer and a sculptor - are on exhibit in The Gallery at the East Stroudsburg State College.

The ESSC art department and art club, sponsors of the exhibit, feel that this display of "words of amplification and explanation" by the artists of their own works is an unusual, if not unique, way of hanging a show.

Sterling Strauser is represented by five oils which he considers "typical" of his painting mood and techniques from the years 1926 through 1961.

Time Changes

A Strauser portrait of Jacob Mitchell, executed in 1926, represents his work of the '20's. About this portrait, he says: "This is my best conceptive portrait for the year 1926. It illustrates the use of distortion, simplification and the early twentieth century version of bold color."

Nancy Hebard, who has five oils on exhibit, has chosen to deliver her philosophy of painting in one manifesto, instead of discussing each work separately. "... For me," she says, "painting is a way of seeing, uncluttered by tradition or opinion, and the seeing is always a new experience. All my paintings derive from seen forms - usually, although not always, in nature..."

Agnes Dyer, the only complete abstractionist in the show, delivers thoughts from Cocteau, Braque and Picasso. "A picture is not a window," Cocteau, and, "Do you ask a bird to explain its song? Or a tree why it grows the way it does?" - Braque.

Photographer Jesse Weiss talks this way about his art. "... To make a photograph requires a selection of subject. The subject may or may not have literal meaning. Perhaps it is only a symbol. The time the exposure is to be made must be chosen. The light is always changing. Finally, a print is made, paying close attention to interpretative values of lights and darks and their conveyed meanings..."

George B. Johnson, the sculptor, says: "My welded steel that I call Two Dragons and A Bird, originally began as two dancers but wound up something quite different. Beginning these drawings of the dancer represented only a springboard for my imagination and I did not feel that the sculptures had to continue to be dancers. They are meant to be seen in silhouette and have been burned from a solid sheet of steel."

The current show at ESSC's Gallery will run through April 18. The public is invited to attend between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Next year the art department plans an exhibit of "five traditional artists from the Stroudsburg area."

Car Project, Exhibit Topics At High Schools

East Stroudsburg

By Charlotte Stitt

EVER wonder what the six boys headed down the hall do every Wednesday after school? Well, Michael Butz, Lester Doll, David Squires, Paul Wildrick, Ray Potter, Doug Baker and Karl Wittman are trekking to a weekly meeting of the Automotive Club.

Recently Dave Squires acquired a "49" Chevy and the boys are performing a custom-make job.

In customizing a car, the owner or the persons concerned, can do many different things to a car. Each item of correction makes the car "The only one in the world like it".

The work being done is presently a secret the "unveiling" after the project is completed.

All work is not the purpose of the club. During the session they discuss how to rebuild a motor, new trends in customizing, and ideas on safety. The club motto is "Safety First".

The club has its academic standards too. One of the rules is that grades must be passing in all subjects. If any member is "failing" in a subject he is suspended.

Local Firm Is Involved In 450,000 Shares Offer

GOLDMAN, Sachs & Co. and associates yesterday offered 454,000 shares of Printing Corp. of America common stock at $20.50.

One of the three firms in the new corporation is Hughes Printing Co., East Stroudsburg, Russell C. Hughes, president of the company said yesterday.

Hughes is chairman of the board of directors of the new formed Printing Corp. of America.

All the shares are being sold by current stockholders. None of the proceeds will accrue to the company.

It is the first public offering of shares in the company — which will be formed immediately prior to delivery of the stock. The company believes it will be one of the nation's largest printers of trade and business periodicals. It is being formed by a combination of three printing companies: Hughes Corporation and its affiliates; Publishers Printing-Rogers Kellogg Corp.; and Livermore and Knight Company and its two subsidiaries.

The company operates 11 plants in Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island and has facilities for all varieties of type composition; single color to five color presses for both letterpress and lithographic printing; and equipment for binding, addressing and mailing.

Printing Corporation plans a major expansion program which includes a substantial increase in its lithographic capacity and the acquisition of a hard-cover book bindery.

Pro-forma net sales for the year ended December 31, 1961, were $40,276,926, providing net income of $1,604,618, equal to $1.08 a share.

Directors are expected to declare a dividend of 10 cents a share, payable June 15, 1962, to stockholders of record June 1, 1962.

Printing Corporation's capitalization will consist of $4,236,126 in promissory notes, $133,989 minority interests in subsidiaries and 1,490,000 shares of common stock.

Hughes, of Hughes Printing Co., East Stroudsburg, Edward A. Schrader and Sampson R. Field. Knight is president of PCA, Hughes is board chairman and Field is executive committee chairman and treasurer. Schrader represents the underwriters, Goldman, Sachs & Co. Printing Corporation will be formed by combination of three long-established printing businesses: Hughes Corporation and its affiliated companies; Publishers Printing-Rogers Kellogg Corporation, and Livermore and Knight Company and its two subsidiaries.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—George Allabaugh, 43-year-old gasoline station attendant, was shot to death before dawn Thursday in a holdup in nearby Hanover Township. May 15 Set Target Date For 'Paupack School Plans

HAWLEY — May 15 was accepted by Everett Associates, architects for the new Wallenpaupack Area Joint School at Lake Wallenpaupack, as the target date for completion of detailed architectural plans on which bids may be asked.

Completion date of the school is September, 1963, according to the present schedule.

Meeting at Hawley High School in the April session with Dr. Richard Porter presiding, the board discussed at length the seven-district budget. This excludes Greene and Dreher Townships, now operating on their own budget until the new building is occupied.

It was decided that for purposes of estimating budget costs for the new building, a bond issue of $2,310,000 will be used. The board approved a 25-year retirement of bonds.

On the above basis, (not finally adopted excepting for budget estimates,) the net building cost for Greene Township will be 13.4 mills, and to Dreher Township, 13.9 mills.

Seven-District Budget
The seven-district budget, exclusive of building costs, totaled $363,08. The Southern Wayne budget on the same basis is $139,605.

Mrs. Olive Murphy, treasurer of the joint board, reported a balance of $74,546.98.

Harold Gumble reported for the building committee. Only one bid was received on the well drilling, and this was rejected. The board decided to accept the most economical plan that would be approved by the Pennsylvania Department of Health. It was noted that test borings at the site will be unnecessary. The clearing contractor will be asked to scarify the earth with the bulldozer at various places, revealing the nature of the earth strata sufficiently for a one-story building.

Where The Money Goes

Health is a wonderful thing, and everyone is for it. Research is one key to the future health of the nation, beyond a doubt. These two facts seem to have blinded some Congressmen to the fact that money doesn't automatically turn itself into fruitful research and then into health.

The Kennedy Administration's record budget is anything but niggardly as submitted, and it asked an increase of $103 million over the previous year's budget for the National Health Institute. This would give the Institute $780 million to spend.

But the House Appropriations Committee has added another $60 million to the appropriation for the Institute, bringing the total to $840 million.

All this happened in spite of the testimony of Dr. James A. Shannon, the director of the Institute. He told Congress that the Administration budget figure contained enough funds to continue present research and expand effectively into new fields.

Ten years ago, the Institute got along on a comparatively modest $59 million. Each year the budget has been increased, and some years the Congress has raised the amount by as much as 43 per cent.

Research is a tricky business, and money is only one necessary ingredient. It is doubtful whether the great medical researchers and discoverers of the past, such as Jenner, Lister, Pasteur, ever in their combined lifetime handled as much as the Institute's budget for a single day.

Today's research is concentrated on more obscure problems, perhaps, and anything today is bound to be more expensive than similar work yesterday. But there is always the problem—no matter how much money there is to spend—of finding the talented and dedicated people trained to pursue the elusive truths.

The budget as submitted was no example of penny-pinching. It is unlikely that the additional appropriation would live up to the expectations of the generous Congressmen, in results.

Quackery Still A Problem

The Food and Drug Administration had one of its busiest years in 1961, inspecting thousands of food, drug and cosmetic establishments, seizing tons of contaminated foods and disposing of huge amounts of adulterated drugs. Its 309 prosecutions, 120 involving adulterated or misbranded foods and 189 concerned with defective or dangerous drugs and medical devices, shows that the day of the quack, didn't end when patent medicine men folded their tents.

It was found, for example, that queenbee jelly may be fine for insects but is not necessarily beneficial to man, that certain electrical devices will not rejuvenate the race, and that compounds advertised to cure ulcers and arthritis were falsely represented in this day and age.

However, in the midst of the prosecutions of manufacturers and dealers and enforced destruction of filthy, spoiled or adulterated food products, there were firms as anxious to maintain desired standards as the administration could wish. A Pennsylvania brewer voluntarily dumped tons of insect-infested corn grits used in the manufacture of beer, a dairy company in Nebraska installed humidity controls and air conditioning and a peanut company in Texas put up concrete silos for more sanitary storage.

On the other hand, there were well-known brand names in the lists of products produced in violation of the food and drug act and which were pronounced unfit.

The Food and Drug report affirms that there is far more than policing of production standards in the job of protecting the public. Someone has to save the people against their own ignorance. As for the illegal selling of prescription drugs, it still takes two to break the law. Phony fadists could not stay in business long without the help of gullible customers who put a higher stake in promises of panaceas than in the words on a drug bottle label.

Expropriation

IT is becoming increasingly customary for officials of new revolutionary governments to seize American property as has recently been done in Cuba and in Brazil; as had earlier been done in Red China and Soviet Russia. As a matter of practice, the United States in recent years has done nothing about such expropriations.

During earlier administrations, particularly in the Theodore Roosevelt and Taft Administrations, the United States pursued what came to be known as "Dollar Diplomacy," by which was meant that the United States not only protected American life but also American property.

Since the Franklin Roosevelt Administration, American policy on this subject had to change because when Roosevelt recognized Soviet Russia, he ignored the fact that Russia had expropriated American property in Russia without compensation of any kind.

It used to be true, particularly in countries where the United States exercised extraterritorial jurisdiction, that any company could register at a consulate as an American company. In 1924, Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes held that:

"The question, however, as to the extent to which this government should afford such a corporation assistance in a foreign country is one which may properly be governed by large measure by the nature and extent of the American interests involved."

Since the Franklin Roosevelt Administration it has become policy to protect neither American life nor American property anywhere, even in countries with a low level civilization, with the result that expropriations have become increasingly usual.

The assumption is that American corporations are owned by rich tycoons and to hell with them. The fact is that American corporations are usually owned by thousands of small stockholders, often widows, orphans, trust funds left for children's education and educational institutions and the like.

When an expropriation takes place, these stockholders have been robbed as though their pockets had been picked. Benjamin Javits, President of the United Shareowners of America, makes the point that American industry is owned by 16,000,000 shareowners.

When the Brazilian government, for instance, expropriates American property in Brazil, the property of a duly franchised American company, it actually steals the possessions of the shareowners of that property. It is after such an event that our government entertains President Joao Goulart of Brazil!

Are we to finance the Brazilian government in its depredations as we gave Stalin $11,000,000 to become our principal enemy?

The real difficulty is that whereas we speak of ours as a capitalist country, we do not quite mean what we say. Capitalism is the investment of our surplus above the necessities of life in the economy of a country at the risk of the investor, who hopes to profit, but may lose.

When, however, the government encourages companies to take a share of their investments abroad, it assumes a specific responsibility, at any rate, to protect that investment from expropriation, which simply means "taking away" without any regard to the rights of the shareowners in their own property or the economy of the United States. At that point, we need to do something about it.

In the old days, when we were a proud nation, and were putting considerable money into Latin American enterprises, we did do something about it. We sent the Marines and maintained the Monroe Doctrine. But it was impractical to do that when the Russian Bolsheviks seized American property. We were not ready to go to war with Soviet Russia.

We did send an army to Siberia to prevent Japan from seizing the Trans-Siberian Railroad from Lake Baikal east, an act which prevented the partitioning of Russia among the Allies early enough to contain the Bolsheviks in a small and perhaps unconquerable area. This failed and has since been discussed with numerous and singular distortions by so-called experts.

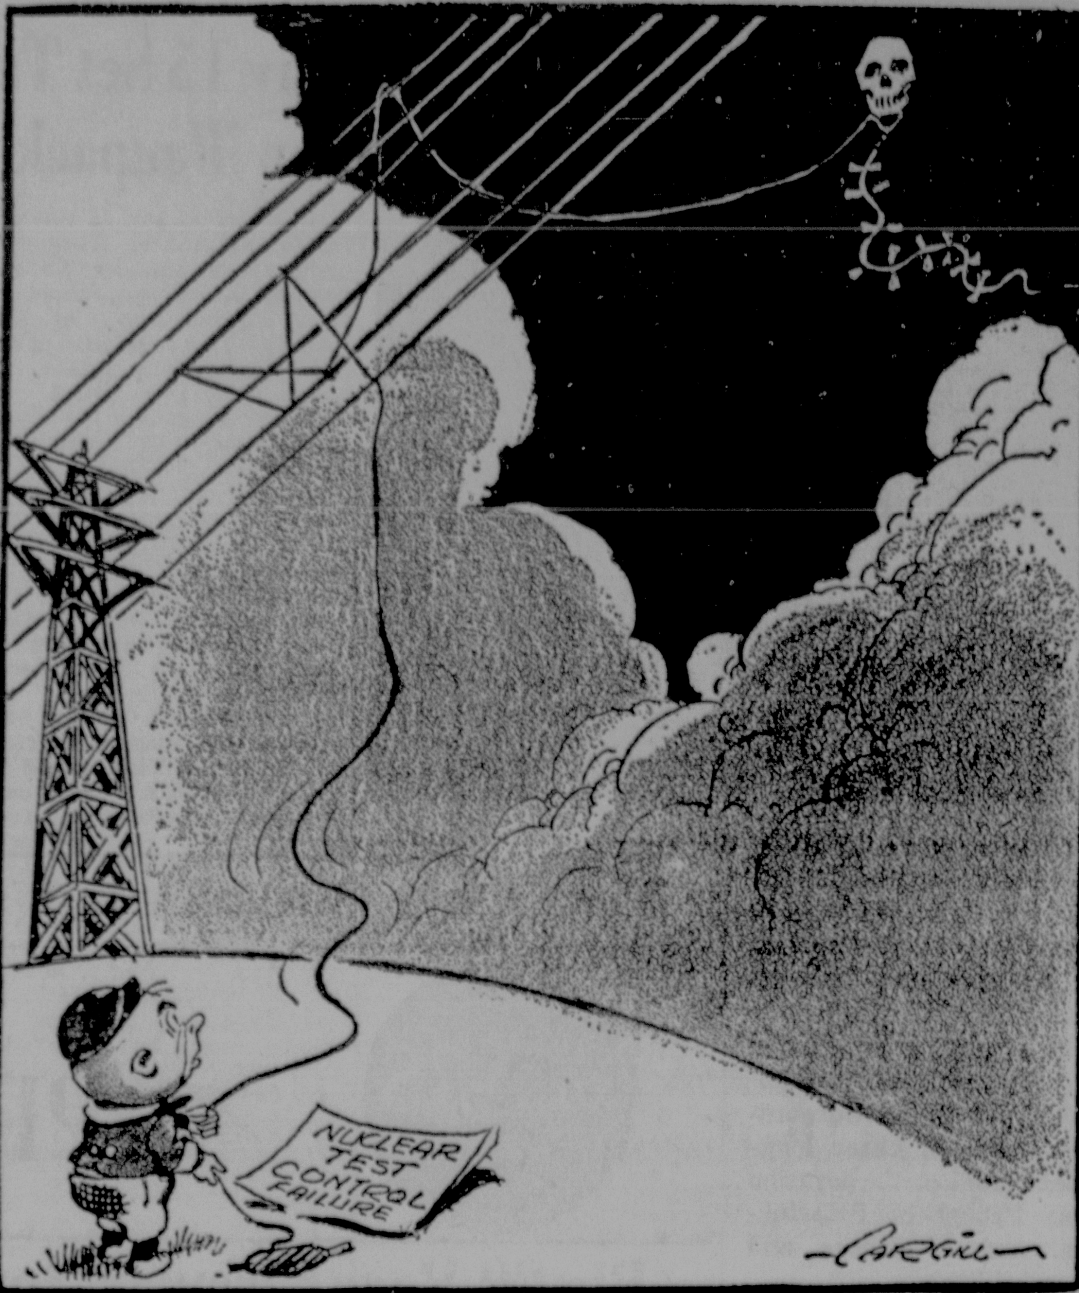

As it became increasingly impractical to deal with Soviet Russia, efforts to protect American property or even American life in Communist countries ceased altogether. A diplomatic note is not an effort. It is a waste of paper, ink and personnel. The proof that I am correct in this interpretation is that country after country has engaged in expropriation, the worst being Red China and Cuba, with the most recent.

While there is a flight of capital from the United States and an export of jobs to Western Europe and Japan, Americans show wisdom in keeping their money out of those countries which have a history of expropriation.

The Pennsylvania Story

Criticism Of School System

HARRISBURG — Criticism of Pennsylvania's public school system has been pretty much in the limelight within recent years — some of the criticism unquestionably justified; some of it undeniably unjustified.

So-called "short com ings," "corrective measures," "analyses" and what-not of the public education "program" have been forthcoming from experts, observers, philosophers, amateurs — or you name it and we've had it!

Invariably these "authorities" on the problem have been "name" brands — nationally known personages; or in the case of Pennsylvania, "name" personalities insofar as the Keystone State is concerned.

We'll start with the Governor as an illustration, although Mr. Lawrence wisely has not projected his own particular ideals and thoughts on education in Pennsylvania, but rather has relied on the offerings, recommendations and opinions of the "experts" for development of his viewpoint.

Elsewhere in the arena we've run the gamut of opinions, recommendations, corrective measures, diatribes and "solutions" from the "top in the field" — officialdom galore within Pennsylvania's educational fountainhead: the State Department of Public Instruction.

The State Legislature has spoken — collectively (with its now notorious Act 561, the mandatory school district reorganization act) — and individually; in the latter case with legislative-politicos suddenly becoming "authorities" on the subject!

Series after series of articles have been written on what the "name" people in (and out of) the field of education think; what is wrong; what should be done; where Pennsylvania is headed in its present "collision course."

But seemingly in all this the very people who are most concerned with the problem; who live with it day in and day out; the time-worn "grass roots" people; those on the "practicing school level" have been forgotten; ignored. The "names," the professionals, the amateurs, and the pseudos have indeed taken over.

How do these "grass roots" people feel who are directly concerned with the "educational problem" itself; what is their reaction; how do we compare; what is the possible answer; where has the system fallen down; what is needed to jack it up?

Of course no single person on the local level can be accepted as speaking for "all" in this vein, but this column became curious as to reaction of, say, just one educator on the local level.

After some searching we found such a person in position to express thoughts along this line; to give an expression of what might be termed that of a working educator; an "un-named" brand!

Beginning Monday and running through a series of five "Pennsylvania Story" columns, there will appear the expressions, the thoughts of one of Pennsylvania's "grass roots" educators; one who has spent 41 years in the education field as assistant county superintendent and county superintendent of schools.

Guesting this column next week will be Arthur M. Felker, who retired the first of the year as Snyder County Superintendent of Schools, a smallish county (population) in central Pennsylvania.

This then will be "an" expression from the grass roots level — minus the glittering generalities offered heretofore by the "name-brands"; the results of intensive study over the years of the education problem by one who has been working in the field.

Beginning Monday: the Arthur M. Felker series.

Past president of the Kiwanis Club, Woody German, enjoyed a birthday this past week in between scores of tax notices.

Woody's lovely missus, Mary, isn't helping matters either, refusing to divulge German's age. One thing for sure it is not the number of days left to file your income tax return.

One would probably be close if he or she added 30 to the tax deadline norm.

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

WASHINGTON, April 6—The State Department is inviting representatives of virtually the entire Communist block to tour the big U. S. missile and satellite launching base at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Ambassador Francis T. P. Plimpton, U.S. representative to the United Nations' Committee on Peaceful Uses of Outer Space, is making the arrangements for the 24 committee members including those from the Soviet Union, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania and Albania.

The State Department's star-eyed plans call for the precedent-breaking tour to be conducted on Tuesday, April 10. It will include detailed briefings of all space activities of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's top officials and scientists.

If the necessary arrangements can be completed in time, the group will witness a satellite or missile launching during the tour. Security precautions are being taken to restrict the tour to the NASA launching area.

The Allen-Scott Report

Communist Delegates Invited On Tour

The new "open gate" space policy is part of the State Department's program to push President Kennedy's proposal for joint U.S.-Soviet cooperation in the exploration of outer space through the United Nations.

The President's proposal, which received a surprisingly warm reception from Soviet Premier Khrushchev, is an integral part of the Administration's new strategy "to find limited areas of overlapping interest with Communist regimes."

This new policy was first revealed in a little-publicized speech titled "American Strategy on the World Scene" delivered by Dr. Walt W. Rostow, chairman of the State Department's Policy Planning Commission, at Purdue University on March 15.

GETTING TOGETHER — The grand strategy is designed to lessen tensions between Russia and the U.S. by increasing joint cooperation in scientific and cultural projects of mutual benefit.

For instance, the President is proposing that Russia and the U.S. each launch a weather satellite in near-polar orbit in planes approximately perpendicular to each other. These satellites, which would then pass over the same spots on earth at the same local time each day, would provide two daytime weather reports for every area of the earth.

Russia is showing intent interest in this joint venture, according to Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. He is privately negotiating with General A. A. Blagonravov, who occupies a similar position in the Soviet program.

The missile test base tour is the brain child of Harlan Cleveland, Assistant Secretary of State for International Organization Affairs, and Dr. Jerome Wiesner, the President's science adviser.

By opening the gates at the Cape to these Communist observers, they hope to influence the Russians to reciprocate by inviting members of the UN Outer Space Committee, including those from the U.S., Britain and France, to inspect a Soviet satellite base.

All efforts by Dr. Dryden to get General Blagonravov to agree to open a Russian missile base have gotten nowhere in their private talks.

Instead, the Soviet military scientist has taken the position that such a subject can be discussed only between Premier Khrushchev and President Kennedy at a summit meeting.

And the betting here now is that this meeting will come sometime in June or July.

SPACE FLASHES — Soviet missile-tracking ships are steaming into position again. U. S. Naval Intelligence reports that these vessels are taking up positions in the area south of Johnston Island, where the U. S. is planning to hold a series of nuclear tests later this month. . . . One of the explanations being advanced by U. S. officials for the puzzling fact that Russia is now offering to cooperate with the U. S. in space at this time is that Khrushchev can't afford to spend $30 billion to put a man on the moon. . . . The failure of the Soviets to make a manned space flight during the past nine months is attributed to the bad experience they had with their second cosmonaut, Gherman Titov. A paper published by the Soviet Academy of Science confirms that Titov experienced disorientation, dizziness and nausea, and that he could scarcely move his head. The paper speculates that these adverse effects were caused by biological changes in Titov's organs brought on by excessive gravitation and weightlessness. . . . The U.S. man-in-space program has cost $400 million so far, including Lt. Colonel John Glenn's flight. It is estimated that another $100 million will be spent on the program before the end of 1962.

SOCIAL WHIRL — Spring and the famed cherry blossoms are breaking out all over Washington, and its always hectic social pace is more so than ever. Despite the earliness of the season, garden parties are in vogue. And apparently there are a lot of fresh air enthusiasts in the Capital because these affairs are drawing big crowds. Some 700 guests attended a garden party by Brigadier General Luigi Violante, Italian air attaché, on the 39th anniversary of his service; and around 500 guests showed up at the garden party of the Welcome to Washington International Wives Club. . . . Mrs. Robert McCormick, widow of the turbulent publisher of the Chicago Tribune, is happily informing her friends that work is about to begin on a large new home she is building on fashionable upper Massachusetts Avenue, directly opposite the Japanese embassy in the heart of "diplomatic row."

Jersey State Police To Escort Brigade

NEW JERSEY State Police, under the command of Col. Joseph Rutter, will provide an escort from the Delaware Water Gap bridge to Long Beach Island, N. J., and back Sunday for volunteers who will help clean up that storm battered community.

The motorcade will travel from the bridge on Route 46 to Route 69, on Route 69 to the outskirts of Trenton, Route 206 to Route 72 near Red Bank and on Route 72 to Long Beach Island.

It is estimated that 12 to 14 busses, trucks and a Salvation Army canteen will be in the motorcade. The committee in charge urges motorists not to use private cars and says that adequate transportation will be provided.

Two nurses, Esther Musselman and Ada Altomose, will accompany the group.

Accepting Donations

The Salvation Army is accepting donations of food at its East Stroudsburg Citadel and money contributions for expenses of the group are being accepted by Joseph Whalen, program director of WVPO.

Church services in Protestant churches will be held at 5:15 a. m. and a mass will be held at 5 a. m. in St. Matthew's Church for persons desiring to join the tour, sponsored by the Monroe County Firemen's Assn.

The volunteers will meet at the Stroud Shopping Center at 6 a. m.

Cigarettes Seen Major Cause Of Lung Cancer

This is the last in a series of articles on cancer. Monroe County's Cancer Unit of the American Cancer Society is conducting its annual drive this week. Today's story pin-points data on lung cancer.

LUNG Cancer, the nation's most rapidly rising noninfectious disease, offers the greatest opportunity for prevention, Dr. Morton Spinner of the Monroe County Unit of the American Cancer Society said here today.

"Some doctors call it an epidemic," he said, "yet at least 75 per cent of the 39,000 Americans who will die of lung cancer this year would not have developed lung cancer had they taken one of the known preventive measures against the disease." That measure, the physician said, is "not smoking cigarettes."

Dr. Spinner, Surgeon at Monroe County General Hospital said: "The less you smoke, the less chance you have of getting lung cancer — which is 95 per cent fatal."

He was interviewed at Monroe Unit of the American Cancer Society, headquarters for more than 500 volunteers engaged in the annual Cancer Crusade.

Dr. Spinner estimated that a man who smokes two packs a day has a ten to one chance of developing lung cancer. "It's like playing Russian roulette," he said. A non-smoker's chances are only about one in 270.

"Smoke Less, Live Longer" — "No one can predict what will happen to any individual but, in general, those who smoke less live longer," he said.

What about filters? "The doctor answered: 'The marked shift in recent years by cigarette smokers to filter tips, indicates, to me at least, that the public is moving toward doing something about the tobacco danger. However, the value of smoke filtration is still scientifically undetermined. And though most scientists believe that a decrease in the intake of tar, either by filtering or a reduction in smoking, reduces the risk of lung cancer, the fact remains that no smoking is better than some smoking.'"

Dr. Spinner said that ACS has allocated more than $4,000,000 of its national research program for lung cancer research, "which includes studies into the causes of lung cancer, methods of early detection, cures, and prevention."

"Two years ago," he said, "the Society launched a major program of public education in the purely preventive field. This is the 'Teen-Age Program on Cigarettes and Lung Cancer,' designed to help save the lives of the more than 1,000,000 children now in school who will eventually die of lung cancer if present conditions are not changed. More than two out of three schools in the United States are already using the program's life-saving educational material."

Major Cause

Cigarettes, Dr. Spinner pointed out, are the major cause of lung cancer.

"Atmospheric pollution has also been incriminated as a probable cause," he said, "but only to a minor degree. Cigarettes are the biggest culprits. Our greatest em-

Horse Killed By Truck

A riding horse was instantly killed when struck by a tractor-trailer on Route 209, two miles west of Stroudsburg, at 4:15 a. m. yesterday.

The animal, Paprika, was a six-year-old stallion favored by young riders at Hill Meadow Stables, Stroudsburg, RD 2. Mrs. Flo Lininger, wife of the owner of the stable, said Paprika and two other horses apparently were frightened by something as they grazed in a meadow beside the highway. They broke through a five-foot wire fence and crossed the road.

Kenneth F. Steffey, 42, Wernersville, driver of the tractor-trailer told police he managed to miss two of the animals before striking the third.

Damage to the front end of the tractor was estimated at $500 and the horse was valued at $300. Steffey was not injured.

1,100 Witnesses' Aides Ready For E-Burg Meeting

UPWARD to 1,100 ministers of Jehovah's Witnesses will arrive here today for the 23rd circuit convention of Pennsylvania Circuit No. 2. East Stroudsburg Junior-Senior High School will be the site of the assembly.

Nineteen congregations will be represented. "During the last ten years Jehovah's Witnesses have organized an average of two congregations a day in 185 lands", said A. B. Tedesco, news service director of the assembly.

Circuit No. 2 of Pennsylvania organized two congregations since the last assembly which was held at the Bethlehem Broughal School Building on November 17-19, 1961.

The program will open tonight at 7 o'clock with the district supervisor of the Watchtower Society, Joseph Sala, welcoming the conventioners and speaking on the theme, "Faithfully Increasing Our Praise to Jehovah".

At 7:15 p. m. Mr. Sala will conduct the "Ministry School" giving instruction and counsel to several student speakers. "It is this school that has helped to increase the efficiency of Jehovah's Witnesses in their ministry," the spokesman stated.

He reported that nearly 22 thousand Kingdom Hall ministry training schools are now operating throughout the world.

"Ministry School Program"

Those sharing in the "Ministry School" program are Vincent Herbert, minister of the Tamaqua Congregation, who will speak on the Bible book of Exodus; William Myers, a student minister of the Doylestown Congregation will give a discourse on the "Profanation of Jehovah's Name Brings a World's End"; John Wolbach of the Easton Congregation will read from the Bible book of Isaiah, chapters 33 and 34. Dorothy Cassidy of the Erwinna Congregation and Dorothy Sayres from the Slatington Congregation will demonstrate the procedure used in home Bible studies.

At 8:15 p. m. Charles P. Homolka, circuit supervisor, will direct the ministry development session with the theme, "Bearing Fruit in Every Good Work."

Robert Hartman, presiding minister of Lehigh Valley will speak on "Demonstrate Christian Maturity"; Kenneth Schaffer, assistant presiding minister of the Allentown Congregation will demonstrate how to "Diligently Search for the Lord's Other Sheep"; Kenneth Peters, minister of the Northampton Congregation will speak on "Conduct Bible Studies Regularly"; Alvin Tietzworth from the Doylestown Congregation will deal on the subject, "Express Love of Neighbor."

A special feature of the Saturday program will be the talk on "Dedication and Baptism" at 1:30 p. m. after which candidates for immersion will be baptized in the school's beautiful pool. Sala, commenting on this matter said, "On November 30, 1963, the Supreme Court of the United States ruled that this baptism by immersion by Jehovah's Witnesses is a valid ceremony of ordination within the meaning of the Law".

Bortlik To Preside

Stephen Bortlik, presiding minister of the East Stroudsburg Congregation, will be in charge of the Sunday morning session. He will deal on the subject, "Having a Full Share in the Kingdom Work". He stated that a peak attendance of the convention will be reached at 3:00 p. m. Sunday when 1500 or more are expected to hear Joseph Sala, Bible lecturer, deliver the principal address which is being widely advertised on the subject, "Who Will Rule the World?"

All convention sessions will be open to the public. Seats are free and no collection will be taken at any time.

Mergers And Stocks

Q. My sister and I own some Electric Autolite Co. stock. We are being asked to exchange our stock for Mergenthaler Linotype Co. stock. We intend to keep our stock. If we want to part with it, we would sell it through our broker. If Mergenthaler wants to buy some Electric Autolite stock, why doesn't Mergenthaler do it on the stock exchange? What will be the outcome of all this?

A. The outcome is already decided. Mergenthaler Linotype now owns majority control of Electric Autolite. It obtained that control through the exchange offer.

Before the exchange offer was made, Mergenthaler owned 408,950 shares of Electric Autolite stock. That was about 34 percent of Electric Autolite's 1,190,942 shares of outstanding stock. And it was enough to give Mergenthaler effective control of Electric Autolite.

On March 5 Mergenthaler made an offer to stockholders of Electric Autolite. Under the terms of that offer, you and all other Electric Autolite stockholders could have received one share of Mergenthaler five percent convertible subordinated debentures for each share of Electric Autolite stock.

If you had accepted the offer, you would then have owned stock and debentures of Mergenthaler Linotype Co. But you can't do it now. The offer expired March 28 and Mergenthaler announced that it would not be extended. The offer evidently appealed to a lot of Electric Autolite stockholders. Owners of about 200,000 Electric Autolite shares accepted it. That means that Mergenthaler now owns more than 50 percent of Electric Autolite's stock — absolute control.

An offer of this type is not unusual. This method is often used, when one company wants to buy a large amount of stock in another company. One result is usually to keep the market price of the stock being purchased fairly steady, during the period of the exchange offer.

If Mergenthaler had attempted to buy all that Electric Autolite stock in the open market, it might have had a difficult time. And the market price of the Electric Autolite stock most likely would have shown some wild ups and downs.

Q. I have 2,000 warrants of Commonwealth & Southern Corp. Do they have any value? I know that there is no more company with that name. But how about the company into which that company was reorganized. Can

The House Of The Week Turn-About House Is Doubly Attractive

By JULES LOH
 NO MATTER how you look at it, this is an interesting house. That is to say, it's just as attractive from the rear as from the front, a feature that gives it several obvious advantages. Architect Elmer Gylleck, who designed it as J-13 in the House of the Week series, calls it the turn about house.

"Some people like a plan with the living room in the front, some like it in the back," Gylleck said. "With this house you can have your cake and eat it too, simply by turning the house around."

Beyond this, the architect notes the house is adaptable to almost any lot, and besides, he said, for as much time as folks nowadays relax and entertain in their backyards and patios it just makes good sense to have an attractive rear view.

The house is a three-bedroom ranch with two full baths, a full or partial basement, closed family porch which in effect becomes a second family room, and a double garage with alternate location of the doors.

Its exterior is of wood with some stone veneer at the garage. It has an overall rustic appearance with a colonial touch accentuated by a cupola on the roof. Gylleck suggests a light cream color with a bright entry, such as coral. Or, as an alternate natural redwood siding throughout.

The house is in the medium-size range—1,622 square feet of living area in overall dimensions of 34 feet deep by 74 feet wide. The family porch adds 173 square feet to the ground cover, and the double garage 444 square feet.

Additional Details
 Both the front and rear entrances (and you can take your pick as to which is which, though in the interest of clarity we'll assume the living room to be in the front) have double doors, and both lead to a gallery stretching the full depth of the house.

The plan gives the house fine zoning and traffic circulation features. The bedroom wing is well isolated from housekeeping and entertaining sections, and all areas can be reached conveniently from either entrance.

A hallmark of Gylleck's houses is their relaxed livability, and this house is an excellent example. The kitchen-dining area, for instance, is designed not only as an efficient work area but also as a comfortable arrangement for informal family living. The kitchen is of good size (large enough for a snack table), has plenty of counter space and a

DOUBLY ATTRACTIVE: From the front and rear—if you can tell which is which—this vaguely rustic three-bedroom ranch offers a pleasing view. Its floor plan also is designed so the house can face either direction. A medium-size home, it contains 1,622 square feet of living area plus double garage in dimensions of 34 feet deep by 74 feet wide.

well lighted corner sink which affords a grand view over a flower box.

Hanging cabinets separate the kitchen from the dining area, providing a handy pass-through. This room, too, is relaxed and breezy with large windows and a view of the same planter box.

An extra broad passage leads from the kitchen to the family porch. With the sliding glass doors open, the two combine into an expanse of nearly 30 feet.

Both front and rear entries are covered, and this includes the second rear entry which provides access direct to the basement or porch. If the house were turned around, chances are the family would use this entry more than the main entry which leads to the living room. Also, note the ease of passage from the garage to the kitchen.

The living room also offers a cozier, if more formal, atmosphere with its large stone dividing wall and natural wood cabinets. A broad bay window overlooking a terrace complements the handsome fireplace on the opposite wall.

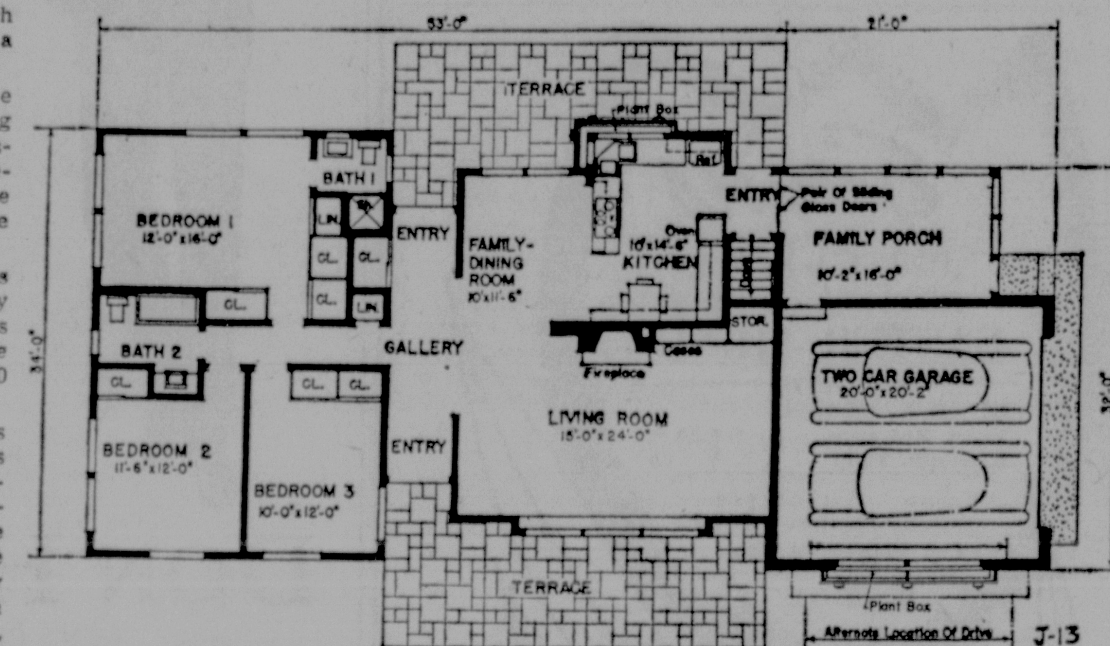

J-13 STATISTICS

A three-bedroom ranch with two full baths, full or partial basement, closed porch, double garage with alternate location of doors. Living room, family-dining room combination, 10 foot by 14 foot, six inch kitchen. Overall dimensions are 34 feet deep, (32 feet on garage side) by 74 feet wide. Area includes 1,622 square feet of living area, 173 square feet for porch and 444 square feet for garage.

No Fumes

IF YOU LIVE in an industrial area or if there is swampland anywhere near your home, the white paint on your home may become discolored by the sulphur gases seeping out of factory chimneys or generated in the swamps. The paint industry has developed special fume-proof paints to combat this condition. Your quality paint dealer can advise you as to which one to choose.

FLOOR PLAN: Broad gallery from front to rear—or rear to front, depending on how you like it—enables the house to be turned around without affecting its livability. Note the excellent isolation of the sleeping wing and the relaxed planning of the housekeeping and formal areas. House contains 1,622 square feet plus porch and garage in overall dimensions of 34 feet by 74 feet.

Lumberjack Is Still A Dramatic Figure In U. S.

THE colorful lumberjack of the Western Pine region is still one of America's dramatic figures. His cry of "Timber" rings through the woods, and he's the same rugged individualist he always was.

But to compare him further with his counterpart of Paul Bunyan's day would be similar to comparing an X-15 test pilot with the pioneer behind the joy stick of an old Jenny.

The modern logger is a highly skilled technician, capable of handling complex equipment and able to apply scientific techniques to the forest around him as he harvests its crop.

The modern logger, when doing his job, is also a critical tool of good forestry. Without him, the high plane of forest management achieved in America's woods, both public and private, would never be reached, since without the logging operations, the forest is a unproductive, stagnant area.

The logger is a specialist, too. He may be the forester whose job it is to "cruise" the harvest project to determine its contents, marking, tree by tree, those to be taken in the careful selective cut practiced upon Western Pine region forests. Here he chooses trees he considers ripe or over ripe . . . or those showing signs of disease or insect infestation. Once these trees with doubtful futures have been removed, the young growth around them will be freed from competition for sun and moisture, and will become vigorous and growing.

Behind the forester come other specialists — the fallers with their high-speed power saws who make their cuts as low as possible in the trunks of the marked trees. The wedge-shaped undercut comes first, its face aimed directly along the line of fall. Then the back-cut, and the tree falls deftly where intended—where it will do the least damage to nearby young growth, or to itself. Usually it is felled up the hill to reduce the impact.

Then the limbs are "bumped" and the tree's trunk is "bucked" into standard lengths—usually 16 feet.

Drain Basement Window Wells

WELLS around basement windows often become filled with a considerable amount of water during heavy rainstorms. This may seep into a basement through a window. Therefore such wells should be drained. Enough drainage is usually provided by digging out the compacted earth at the bottom to a depth of 24 in., and substituting gravel or sand. If this does not dispose of the water quickly, you can lead the water away through drain tiles sunk below the window.

No Glare

FLAT paints and enamels are preferred for walls in living rooms, bedrooms and dining rooms because flat paint reflects light without glare that causes eye strain. In kitchens and bathrooms where the walls have to be protected against steam and water vapor, semi-gloss or gloss enamels are recommended. These coatings will also stand up better under repeated scrubbing to remove grease and stains on the house.

The worst avalanche disaster recorded was in 1916 in the Alps, where a series of snowslides killed 10,000 people.

BEWARE BR'ER FOX!

When you're considering aluminum awnings for your home, be very careful of Br'er Fox. He'll advertise an awning at a wonderfully low price . . . but when you see it, either the advertised price is padded with extras, or the awning is so shoddy you don't want it. Either way, you're "talked up" into spending more money for an inferior awning. He'll offer you a fabulous lifetime guarantee (for the lifetime of . . . what?). Ideas To BUILD-REPAIR-IMPROVE

Soft Water Has Many Advantages

FOR its multitude of different uses, the most desirable quality of water is softness, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. 'Soft' means free from minerals which interfere with the efficiency of water in combination with soap, give a 'flat' taste to food, and have an injurious effect on equipment in which the water is used.

These minerals (mostly calcium and magnesium) are easily removed with a household water softener, installed at the point of water intake.

Furnish In Haste Is To Repent At Your Leisure

PATIENCE and paint are the winning combination for newly-weds about to furnish their apartment. With a little patience, a young couple can avoid the mistakes that often result from furnishing hastily: indulging in installment buying beyond their means, or making do with inferior furniture that suits their budget but not their taste. Either fast-furnishing method allows little or no thought for the day when family and home will be larger.

Paint gives the novice homeowner the opportunity to supplement well chosen, newly-purchased furniture with used pieces that need only a willing hand to regain their beauty. Browsing through family attics and second-hand shops is in itself an education. With a little practice, the worthy can be recognized; with a little imagination, they can be reactivated to new life. Aunt Bessie's old console radio cabinet, painted bright blue to match the new draperies, would make a handsome bar for the living room now, for the future den, later. With some brush work, a retired wrought iron table and chairs would serve in today's dinette and tomorrow's garden. A roll-top desk, a relic from school days, would need just a coat of feminine color to become the bride's beauty bureau. With the top down, he'll never know what secret potions lie within. Repainted a bright hue, it would be a unique paper-work station in a country kitchen.

Renewing old pieces is not only gratifying, but additionally rewarding in that such furniture has a uniqueness which gives a home distinction that cannot be duplicated.

Of course, there is much merit in finishing unpainted pieces, for they, too, are inexpensive targets for your individual flair.

Hot Water Makes Chores Much Easier

AN ENEMY against which there never can be any armistice is dirt in the home. The strongest weapon against dirt is an adequate supply of hot water, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

Hot water makes nearly every household task easier, the Bureau points out.

Hot water is indispensable for the laundry and for washing dishes. With the increasing use of water-connected appliances, the demand for larger water heaters has increased.

Thus nearly 70 per cent of all water heaters made find their way into older homes where they are used to replace worn out and inadequate water heating equipment.

Even in some comparatively new homes the existing water heaters are not big enough to cope with the demands for hot water resulting from larger families.

Many old water heaters are incapable of supplying enough hot water at the right temperatures for modern appliances. In buying a new water heater it is wise to plan for an increase in the demands for hot water in the future. Plumbing contractors have charts for the proper sizing of water heaters to meet present and future demands. Correct installation of water heaters under the supervision of an experienced plumbing contractor is important for safety and efficiency.

Medicine Cabinet A Must For The Modern Bathroom

EVEN the smallest powder room needs a modern medicine cabinet.

Large or small, no bathroom or powder room can be called complete without a medicine cabinet of the proper size and in the proper location.

Size depends, naturally, on the size of the room and the people using it. If it's for a family bathroom, one of the double compartment types is needed—one side reserved mainly for men's shaving accessories and toiletries, the other side for women's cosmetics and beauty aids. For the powder room, a smaller medicine cabinet is needed to hold guest soaps, toiletries, and first aid supplies.

Location of the cabinet should always be over the lavatory, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, high enough to be out of reach of young children. (Every year, more children die of accidental poisoning than from all the contagious diseases put together). Another reason for storage space above the lavatory—medicine bottles will not tip over as they might in the drawer of a floor-installed cabinet.

Many plumbing contractors have sizeable displays of the various cabinet models in their stores. Some models you'll see are available with an extra safeguard against accidental poisoning, one or more locking compartments for storage of especially dangerous medicines.

Of course, modern medicine cabinets offer more than just storage. Their spacious mirrors add glamor and a feeling of more depth to the room.

With the variety of sizes, types and styles, there's as much selection as for new bathroom fixtures. Most standard twin compartment models have mirrored doors that slide back and fourth in a metal track, or open and close on hinges.

A popular variation model has a large center mirror, with storage space in mirror-door cabinets on either side. Another model has adjustable side mirrors, permitting a three-way view.

All better medicine cabinets have integral lighting. The cabinets are made of steel, enameled on the inside and chromium-plated on the outside for a sparkling, jewel-like finish.

Outdoor Fire Place Is Easy To Build, Fun To Use

AS TRAFFIC continues to become more congested, picnics at home provide relaxation and a complete change of pace. Since everyone agrees there's something different about eating out, there's really no reason to knock yourself out fighting traffic when weenies taste and smell just as good in your own backyard.

This fireplace, built according to pattern offered below, helps manufacture merry picnics. It's easy to build, fun to use. Before buying materials pattern specifies, inquire whether local authorities permit building outdoor fireplaces.

Follow pattern when you position fireplace to prevent smoke and sparks from annoying your neighbors. The pattern method of construction explains every step. Tells how to lay out foundation; illustrations show each course of brick; also specifies materials needed. Directions so simplify building, anyone can mix concrete and lay brick required. One merely needs practice. Once you've tried it, you'll be amazed to see how adept you become.

Bricklaying is beneficial in two ways. It not only provides an economical way of building a fireplace but also offers a sure cure for nervous tension. Taut nerves begin to relax as your mind and body adjust itself to the steady rhythm of bending over, lifting, applying mortar and placing brick.

The concentration and physical effort required makes a healthy combination that has great therapeutic value. So, for fun at home and for picnics in your own backyard, build this outdoor fireplace now.

Get Bids For Drilling Your Well

"HOW MUCH will it cost?" is always a fair question when it pertains to home building and home improvement.

It is also a good question pertaining to a water supply for a house beyond the city water mains. In this case the cost involves the drilling of a well.

Approximately 11,000 well drilling contractors across the country are members of the National Water Well Association. This Association suggests that you ask a well drilling contractor to figure his costs when he gives you an estimate as follows:

Drilling—cost per foot; Casing—cost per foot; Cost of other materials such as the drive shoe, screen, seal, etc.; Cementing; Developing the well; Test pumping, etc.

Dear Abby

It Can Be Done!

Dear Abby: I have been living with this fellow since 1946. Every-one thinks we are married, but we are not. We have a nice home and are respected in the community and I want to keep it that way. We would like to get married quietly now, but don't know how to do it without publicity (license in the paper, blood tests and so forth). I would appreciate any help you can give me. I can't sign my name, so please put this in the paper and I'll watch for it.

WANTS TO LIVE RIGHT

Dear Abby: Every state has its own laws with regard to marriage. In California you may go to a clergyman of your choice and be married quietly. The "records" will be filed away in the church and no publicity will follow. And you will be just as married as any two people can be.

Dear Abby: What do you think of a person who constantly corrects others in public about the pronunciation and use of words?

JUST CURIOUS

Dear Just: I think that person is showing HIS ignorance. It is infinitely more important to be KIND than correct.

Dear Abby: I am a 15-year-old boy with a very active social life and a better than average school record. As far back as I can remember my mother has wanted me to take piano lessons. Until recently I have refused. Finally, we made a deal. If I took piano lessons, my mother would give me permission to smoke. I have started taking piano lessons and am bored. I now realize that the piano is not for me. I told my mother I would quit smoking if she let me quit the piano. She said NO! Please tell me how I can get out of this dizzy deal.

NO CHOPIN

Dear No Chopin: You don't have to be a Chopin to enjoy music. Almost everyone who goofed off when he had the chance to learn music has regretted it. I can't say much for the "deal" your mother made, but make the best of it or all that money for music lessons will go up in smoke.

Dear Abby: My heart goes out to the daughter-in-law who signed herself "IGNORED." I know how she feels because I am "ignored," also. Only I am a mother-in-law. My only child was married 15 years ago. They live only 22 miles from me, but I have grandchildren I have never seen. I don't weep and moan and feel sorry for myself. I take my troubles to the Lord. He keeps me strong and of good cheer.

ALSO IGNORED

Stop worrying. Let Abby help you with that problem. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Friday, April 6th, 1962
March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Pluto's fine aspect in ascendency. Accrue to crowd in too much when you are crowded. Keep initiative, objectives high.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Think before speaking. Plan before acting. And you will avoid any date appropriately. At times it is advisable to concede a minor point for a major gain.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Do not measure success in monetary terms. Among higher values: confidence, respect, reputation, the stature one feels and gains doing one's best. Accept duties of day in your true happy way.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Can be productive period if you stop smarting, think objectively, analyze thoroughly. When you finish routine obligations, apply efforts to projects that provide most real opportunities.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Excellent indications from your ruling Sun. A time for quicker action. Accrue to crowd in too much when you are crowded. Keep initiative, objectives high.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Mercury: less auspicious. Provide the essential caution by reviewing past performance to pinpoint errors; eradicate waste motion. Identify position with stable, dependable money.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Don't stymie self by not having your inner broad viewpoint. Look about, note what is helping, what is hindering. Strive for efforts similarly, but tailored to your specific needs.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — Favorable Mars defends wide-range future plans. Guarding for protective and build-up purposes, changing economy tactics to permit this spending. But take care all the way.

November 24 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Don't be a late starter unless your day is care-free. In either case have definite plans, and get ahead. Strive for efforts similarly, but tailored to your specific needs.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Dispel promptly any melancholy or discouragement. Yes, your special actions so you will not make unwanted errors, but there is no good sense in worry, fears or dissonance.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Through peculiar or unexpected means and sources you are in line for gains, favors. Past thoroughness and creditable endeavor has been noted, will reward. Keep the faith.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Counteract negative, passive inclinations firmly. Should you find aggravation, render it harmless with a sturdy, reasoning attitude that bespeaks hope, amendment, true correction.

YOUNG BORN TODAY: Aries. Sign of natural good will, outgoing tendencies, though you sometimes suffer from sensitiveness and feeling you are misunderstood. You are a person who are misunderstood when it is a fact that there are intensely observing, inwardly commenting your abilities and enthusiastic nature. Suited to work with reforms, revolutionary tactics and measures. You love life, aid it to be meaningful, innately strive against all forms of deterioration and corruption. Can build a minor matter into an important one. This year favors educational and progressive issues, don't be a "world hater" article. Don't let excessive news and verve go overboard, don't indulge extremes, rashness in affections. Simmer, whoop, a fit conserves health. Birthdate of Roman emperors: Raphael and many other renowned painters.

South African's 67 Good For 2-Stroke Edge

Player Leads Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — South Africa's Gary Player, the forgotten champion, picked up where he left off a year ago and fired a brilliant 5-under-par 67 Thursday for the first round in the Masters Golf Tournament.

Finishing in semi-darkness in a raw, cold drizzle, the black-suited little battler from Johannesburg nailed a birdie 3 on the final hole to go two strokes ahead of Julius (Big Moose) Boros, the grim Hungarian, who had checked in two hours earlier with a 69.

While the rain-coated crowd hugged the 18th green, Player sent a booming drive some 260 yards down the middle, punched a four-iron shot to within 8 feet of the cup and calmly sank the putt for the best round of the long and dreary day.

Birdie For Palmer
The tournament prime favorite, Arnold Palmer, also scored a birdie on the final hole by sinking an 18-foot putt for a 70. He was bracketed in third place at the finish with Mike Souchak, the former Duke football star, and two darkhorses from Florida, Dave Ragan and Gardner Dickinson, Jr. After Palmer rolled in his putt on the final hole, he turned to a spectator and quipped:

"Well, as they say, a day late and a dollar short."
It was on this hole last year that Palmer, a two-time winner of the championship, blew to a double bogey 6 when he had the title practically in his grasp. Player, who had finished earlier, won by a shot with 280.

Player's impressive first round drive, marked by only one bogey and by almost flawless shotmaking on every hole, astounded most of the observers who had predicted he was a champion who could not possibly repeat.

ESSC's Reese Will Head YMCA's Day Camp Program

JOHN R. WILSON, General Secretary of the YMCA of Monroe County, has announced that Charles R. Reese, professor in the Department of Health and Physical Education at East Stroudsburg State College, will direct the Summer Day Camps for both boys and girls during the 1962 season.

Reese, who carries much of the coaching responsibilities at the college, particularly football and track and field events, has also devoted much of his time to camp programs and management of camps.

He has had extensive experience as a camp leader in YMCA and Boy Scout Camp programs. His major activity being in the field of swimming and water safety. Reese has already laid out plans for the 1962 "Y" Camp program in establishing the dates for the camps and in the selection of the site.

The dates are:
The first period beginning on Monday, July 4, and continuing until July 14; the second period from July 16 to July 28; and the third period from July 30 to August 10. These dates apply for both boys and girls camps.

Boys and girls between the ages of 7 1/2 to 13 years of age will be accepted at the camps.

Senior and Junior counselors are being interviewed by Reese and some selections have already been made.

Mr. and Mrs. Reese reside at 515 Brown St., Stroudsburg and have four children.

During the past year he has been active in the Parent Teachers Association at the Ramsey School, Stroudsburg.

Kid Paret To Be Buried In Florida

NEW YORK (AP)—The body of boxer Benny (Kid) Paret was flown to Miami Thursday for burial. A total of 2,000 persons filed past the casket of the former welterweight champion in two days at a Bronx funeral home before it was taken by hearse to Idlewild Airport.

Mrs. Lucy Paret, 21-year-old pregnant widow of the fighter who died early Tuesday 10 days after he was beaten into a coma by Emile Griffith in a Madison Square Garden title fight, arrived in Miami earlier Thursday to make funeral arrangements.

She was carrying a wreath labeled "champ," which will go atop Paret's casket.

A seven-man committee of the New York State Legislature opens hearings here Friday on whether to abolish boxing in this state.

The group has $25,000 to conduct the investigation, and will report to the 1963 legislature which convenes in January.

New York Gets Peek At Derby Nags

NEW YORK (AP) — The big town gets a peek at some of the top Kentucky Derby horses Saturday in the $50,000-added Gotham Stakes at Aqueduct.

But there is one huge fly in the Louisville ointment buzzing around Long Island, and his name is Jaipur, owned by George D. Widener.

Eight 3-year-olds are expected to take off in one mile Gotham, and with the $125,000 Derby at Churchill Downs just four weeks off, it's about time things got cracking in the East.

Jaipur was deliberately left out of Derby calculations by Widener, who is pointing his ace for the Preakness at Pimlico and the Belmont Stakes at Belmont. But he's a stickout in the unfolding 3-year-old championship drama.

His main New York rival appears to be Donut King, a speedy California-bred colt who beat Jaipur by a whisker in the $206,000 Champagne Stakes at Aqueduct.

Doublebill This Sunday At Nazareth Speedway

ALTHOUGH rains washed out the opening stock car double header racing program the management of Nazareth Speedway is not dismayed—for this coming Sunday, 2:15 o'clock, the same type of show will be featured.

So great was the telephone deluge of inquiries about last week's washout, Producer Fried and an office force was on duty for four hours answering calls from a 150-mile radius. The response of the fans was the greatest in Nazareth's history and this coming Sunday's opener is expected to draw a full house.

On hand will be the speedy, professional modified-sportsman division and also the limited sportsman division.

The 1961 champions—Top Ten—will include the winner, Al Tasnady, plus Bobby Malzahn, Frank Schneider, Ken Wismer, Bud Olson, Otto Horvi, Bob Pickell, Carl Van Horn, Ed and Les Farley and dozens of others.

Shooting For Records
Nazareth's track, whipped into its tip-top shape despite the opening day rains, will find the drivers in the pro division shooting for new track records.

Tasnady, the kingpin, was the hottest driver around last year in points, and his chief contender—Malzahn—will be back to make a stubborn attempt to gain the 1962 championship for the Harold Cope Stables of Easton.

Nazareth Speedway, which will operate every Sunday, will have a sensational series of extra events as the season wears along. These will include the mighty midgets as well as motorcycles and some surprises.

Producer Field, who also will operate the Dorney Park and Allentown Fairgrounds tracks, believes that automobile racing in Eastern Pennsylvania will reach its greatest pinnacle in 1962.

American League pitchers gave Mickey Mantle 126 bases on balls during 1961. Roger Maris was next highest in walks on the Yankees with 95. Clete Boyer was third with 63.

Celtics Win; Meet Lakers For Crown

BOSTON (AP) — Sam Jones' jump shot with two seconds left pulled the Boston Celtics to a 109-107 victory over Philadelphia Thursday night, capping a dramatic comeback which produced the sixth straight National Basketball Association Eastern Division playoff title for Boston.

The play came immediately following a three-point maneuver by huge Wilt Chamberlain which tied the score.

With the string run out in the best-of-seven series, the Warriors had time only for one last play but Sam Jones—the finishing hero—intercepted and held on as the buzzer sounded.

The Celtics now go after their fourth straight NBA playoff championship against Los Angeles opening here Saturday afternoon.

Pressure-proof veteran Bob Cousy and (Big) Bill Russell shared stardom in the late Celtics surge but Boston still needed Jones to settle it. Sam paced the victors with 28 points, Tom Heinsohn had 25 and Cousy 21, nine of them in the stretch.

Stafford Goes Nine In Yank Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Right-hander Bill Stafford, lowering his earned run average to a spectacular 1.69 became the first member of the New York Yankees to go nine innings as the world champions edged Philadelphia 2-1 Thursday.

The 23-year-old Stafford has been virtually untouchable this spring. He allowed 11 hits—all singles—against the Phils but walked only one while striking out six.

The Yankee runs were scored by Tom Tresh and Joe Pepitone, who both came home while double plays were in progress. The victory brought the Yankees record to 17-8 and left them in a tie with St. Louis for the best mark on baseball's exhibition trail.

The Cards, getting an early lead from Stan Musial's first exhibition homer, nipped Detroit 6-5 and handed the Tigers their eighth consecutive loss.

Twins
In other games, Minnesota defeated Baltimore, 6-2; the Chicago White Sox blanked Cincinnati, 5-0; the Los Angeles Dodgers beat Cleveland, 4-2; San Francisco belted Milwaukee, 8-2; Houston overcame the Los Angeles Angels, 3-2; and Kansas City edged the New York Mets, 6-5.

Don Lee went nine for the Twins checking the Orioles on eight hits while homers by Bernie Allen, Dick Rollins and Zoilo Versalles gave him the support he needed. Al Smith's grand slam homer and a solo shot by Charley Smith got the job done for the White Sox.

The Dodgers scored three in the eighth against the Indians newly acquired Pedro Ramos to win it. The Giants collected 13 hits, including a two-run homer by Willie McCovey, and rookie Gaylord Perry pitched eight scoreless innings for the triumph over the Braves.

Stockholders Approve Sale Of The Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Stockholders of the Cincinnati Baseball Company approved Thursday sale of the Reds baseball team to a new company, Cincinnati Reds Inc., headed by William O. Dewitt, now president and general manager of the club.

The purchase price was $4,625,000.

Sale of the club to Dewitt and his still undisclosed associates previously had been approved by the National League.

Landis Gets Medical Aid

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—Center fielder Jim Landis left the White Sox Thursday and flew to Chicago for treatment of an injured leg.

Manager Al Lopez said if Landis isn't ready for the club's home opener Tuesday he will be replaced in the starting lineup by rookie Mike Hersberger.

Ed Brown Traded To The Steelers

CHICAGO (AP)—Ed Brown, a quarterback with the Chicago Bears for eight seasons, was traded to the Pittsburgh Steelers Wednesday.

The Bears will receive a first-round selection in the 1962 national football league draft and another player to be named later.

The Bears, in another deal, obtained Bobby Joe Green, a star punter, from the Steelers for a 1962 draft pick.

The swapping of Brown completed a deal which had sent Steeler quarterback Rudy Bukich to the Bears earlier.
